ACLS

HOW TO GET READY

The ACLS Provider and Recertification Courses are designed to teach the lifesaving skills required to be both a team member and a team leader in either an in-hospital or out-of-hospital setting. Because the ACLS course covers extensive material in a short time you will need to be prepared for the course.

PRECOURSE REQUIREMENTS

You should prepare for the course by doing the following:

- 1) Complete the pre-test found at www.heart.org/eccstudent, and enter the code provided in the manual. Bring a copy of the pre-test to class – required.
- 2) Review, understand, and complete the ECG and Pharmacology precourse assessment tests on www.heart.org/eccstudent. You will not be taught how to read or interpret ECG's in the course, nor the details about ACLS pharmacology.
- 3) In your ACLS Provider Manual, pay particular attention to the Part 5 of the ACLS Cases in the manual. These cases are designed to review the knowledge and skills that you need to successfully participate in the course events and pass the Megacode Testing station.
- 4) Review and understand the information for BLS for healthcare provider. You will be tested on adult 1-rescuer and AED skills.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

After taking this course, participants should be able to:

- 1) Recognize strategies for preventing cardiopulmonary arrest in adults.
- 2) Recognize the adult at risk of cardiopulmonary arrest.
- 3) Obtain the cognitive and psychomotor skills necessary for resuscitating and stabilizing the adult victim of cardiopulmonary arrest.

PALS

HOW TO GET READY

The PALS Provider Course is designed to teach the lifesaving skills required to be both a team member and a team leader in either an in-hospital or out-of-hospital setting. Because the PALS course covers extensive material in a short time you will need to prepare for the course.

PRECOURSE REQUIREMENTS

You should prepare for the course by doing the following:

- 1) Complete the pre-test found at www.heart.org/eccstudent, enter the code provided in the manual and bring a copy of the pre-test to class – required.
- 2) Review, understand, and complete the ECG and Pharmacology precourse assessment tests on www.heart.org/eccstudent. You will not be taught how to read or interpret ECG's in the course, nor the details about PALS pharmacology.
- 3) In your PALS Provider Manual, pay particular attention to Part 2. The systematic approach to pediatric assessment is designed to review the knowledge and skills that you need to successfully participate in the course events and pass the Megacode. Emphasis will be placed on the "Evaluate, Identify, and Intervene" approach to assessment and management of a seriously ill or injured child, the Primary Assessment (ABCDE) and Secondary Assessment Focused History (SAMPLE).
- 4) Review and understand the information for BLS for healthcare provider. You will be tested on child 1-rescuer and AED skills.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

After taking this course, participants should be able to:

- 1) Recognize strategies for preventing cardiopulmonary arrest in infants and children.
- 2) Recognize the infant or child at risk of cardiopulmonary arrest.
- 3) Obtain the cognitive and psychomotor skills necessary for resuscitating and stabilizing the infant or child victim of cardiopulmonary arrest using the "Evaluate, Identify, and Intervene" approach.
